Air transport of passengers has been progressively growing since 2008. A small decrease, which can be attributed to the aftermath of the 2008 financial crisis, was witnessed in 2009-2010. In 2018, the total number of passengers travelling by air in the European Union could be established at 1 106 million, an increase of 38,2% compared with 2008, and 6% compared to 2017%.
